

MAVERICKS
Daniel Ferstl

“Last year, on the airplane to Sharm el Sheikh, we saw this in-flight movie about a boy, who wanted to ride really giant waves and of course he became a surfing legend and then died at a really young age while freediving. I still think of this movie from time to time.

I kept the cartoon face I drew some time ago at work next to my bed, so I don't forget what it looks like.

This show is about all that, I guess.”
